They Should Study the Bible for Children's Sake.

School to Be Permanent.

BY MRS. C. F. MENNINGER.
Bible study for high school credit has come to stay. A surprisingly large number of pupils are taking hold of the work and in many of the churches classes are being organized. I know of one Sunday school with more than classes are being organized. I know of one Sunday school with more than 100 in six classes. There are likely others with as many. This wonderful educational movement gives to teachers and mothers one of the greatest opportunities to touch the life of the pupil and child that they have ever had. The good teacher will be given added power one hundred fold because there is a value placed on the work done in the Sunday school by the high school world, the greatest, biggest, most powerful world that comes into a lifetime, and all who have themselves been there or lived the four years through with a live the four years through with a live boy or girl, know it. One never again knows so much.

again knows so much.

Now, if every mother who knows how to be blind in one ear, and ignorant of much she really knows, were to take up the study of the Bible, too, and allow herself to be taught and helped by her live wire boy or girl, she might have many an opportunity to put in things she would like to say but never sees the time or place to do it, and the days are so full for young and old that unless there is some ground for mothers.

Mothers Should Study.

Mothers Should Study.

No matter what course is studied, facts are facts that will be taught in them all and the point of contact is ever the same. I would urge mothers to go into Bible classes this winter for the express purpose of grasping this great privilege offered through authorities who have the power and are giving it, of setting new standards in the home life of the family. I know how full the days are, but if there is a boy or girl concerned, no woman can afford to spend her time on fancy work that only litters up the house and troubles the boy. It may be beautiful, but it means nothing for the life that really counts. It is better to do real things and life is the only thing werth while.

No literature in the world can speak so strong or last so long as that in Holy Writ, if applied to the lives of men. No time wasted in playing cards can ever bring any other return to a mother than that of a curse. In these busy days, it is time wasted truly, for it never can be the best source of development for the grasp of that in life which will help the individual to shape itself into one of courage and power, which every life needs. It would be best to give a time for Bible study first, and then pick up that which does most for individual recreation. We have many methods, and each life creates its own future through the life he lives each day.

It May Be Last Chance.

It May Be Last Chance, It may be last chance.

It might help to look ahead. A pupil in the high school is likely to be on his last years in the home, and at any rate he is given in these years the last chance for doing very much to materially influence his future life with much definiteness. High school days are great days. No one counts like mother, and because it is so, I wish this note might lead some earnest, anxious mother to think, to plan. est, anxious mother to think, to plan, to lay aside some things of less im-portance, and for one year at least try studying the Bible in some good Bible class and then teach or be taught by the most charming youth in her own home, and I feel sure it would bring some worth while revelations.

These days, every church has a good adult Bible class. You will be welcome anywhere. My own class will fellow the life of Christ. We meet next Tuesday at 10 o'clock at the Y. W. C. A. to organize. There will most likely be a class both morning and afternoon, after next week.

Harmony and "Pep" on Overbrook Trade Trip.

Southern Towns Swamped by Advertising Literature.

It was a great trip. Ask any of the fifty Topeka business men that re-turned to Topeka via Richland, from Overbrook about 6 o'clock Friday evening. Not only was the little excursion a success, but it was a blow to the gloomy individual who claims to know all about impending disasters that hang over the Chamber of Commerce and alleges that the club is losing its nep losing its pep.

There was pep to burn on that trip. It extracted itself from the Topekans in jerky musical efforts between towns. It was enthusiastically noted in Scranton, Pauline, Wakarusa, Carbondale, Overbrook and Richiand.

At Scranton a "harmony" chorus was organized by Bert Overton, L. C. Rahn, George C. Hench, H. S. Putney and others, Maybe their vocal efforts and others. Maybe their vocal efforts were acceptable to musical ears. Maybe they were not. But anyway, they served the purpose of bringing the crowd toward the Topekans with knowledge that something was going on. At Overbrook the giad hand was extended to the trade trippers immediately on their arrival. The Topekans were escorted to the Methodist church where lunch was ready to be served by the Ladies' Aid society. Following lunch the Overbrook fair was investigated. The Topekans wound up on the midway. Here an hour's "vacation" was indulged. J. Will Kelley and W. H. Davis enticed Overton in front of a booth wherein for a nickel the visitor could throw three times at the "nigger bables" with a lopsided baseball. Overton "fell" but there was no paint knocked from the boards in the back of the booth. A "paddle were escorted to the Methodist church the back of the booth. A "paddle wheel" separated the visitors from more loose change, to say nothing of a dozen other booths.

City Well Advertised. City Well Advertised.

Topeka was well advertised on the trip. It was the first time in years that so large a body has invaded south territory. Its program in the afternoon was attended in force by the Topekans. The parade at 2 o'clock was led by the Knights and Ladies band and the Topekans. Following the event a football game and a baseball game was attended.

"It was a big sign," said the attorney general. "On it were the words 'All meals in this dining room twenty-five cents.' We had chased all over Los Angeles trying to save money on our meals. That dining room was an advertising feature and I was told that the management figured a profit that the management figured a profit of one cent a meal and nearly 3,000 people ate there three times a day."
